Another home burglarized, seminar interest building

By EDGAR PEREZ

The Bay St. Louis Police Department is continuing a search for two women of apparent Spanish descent who are believed to have burglarized a residence in the 300 block of Main Street Feb. 12.

The suspects were posing as door-to-door sales ladies, peddling scarves, according to Chief Douglas Williams. Williams said the victim, Mrs. H.

Hardin Shattuck of 346 Main St., who reported losing some 80 pieces of silverware, is offering a $500 reward for information leading to the recovery of the lost silver.

Mrs. Shattuck was away from her home only for some 45 minutes between 11:15 a.m. and noon on the day of the burglary, police said.

She feels the culprits may have exited from the front door of her residence after she pulled into the driveway upon her return home.

Neighbors said the two suspects were seen leaving the residence and had been canvassing other houses in the area, asking residents if they would like to buy head scarves.

The suspects are described by police as being about five-feet, six-inches tall, of heavy build and wearing scarves on their heads.

One of the suspects had dark, shoulder length hair, black eyes, olive complexion and spoke English well but with a Spanish accent. She was wearing a full-length fur coat.

The other 'sales lady' is said to have two moles on her face and was wearing a long tan fabric coat at the time, police reported.

The pair reportedly has been seen practicing the same method of operation in the Gulfport area.

Williams said information on the suspects will be kept strictly confidential, and should be phoned into him at police headquarters, 467-9221, or at 467-3446.

Bay Police Investigator Matt Karl is handling the case.

Also investigating are Officer Harris Boudreaux of the Bay Police Department and Investigators Robert (Poochie) Tartavouille and Sandra Henley of the Waveland Police Department.

BURGLARY SEMINARS

In the meantime, the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce has joined the Bay Police Department in sponsoring a citizens seminar on crime prevention at Bay Senior High gym Thursday and Friday, March 5 and 6.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett and Williams organized the burglary prevention seminars following a recent rash of residential and business break-ins in the city.

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson and Waveland Police Chief Donald Dorn are expected to participate.

100 pounds of reefer found stashed on tug

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Arrest of a Pearlinton man Thursday for possession of some four pounds of marijuana has led to the discovery of about 100 pounds of the weed hidden aboard a confiscated ocean-going tug docked at Port Bienville.

In addition, a Bay St. Louis man was arrested Friday for possession of cocaine and a small amount of marijuana.

Investigator Alvin Ladner reported Friday that Lawrence Smith, 28, of Pearlinton was arrested early Thursday morning by deputies at the port and charged with possession of marijuana with intent to distribute.

"He was one of several longshoremen unloading the 'Don Pachó' which was seized by U.S. Customs Agents in Louisiana earlier in the week while transporting several tons of Columbian marijuana," Ladner explained.

"Smith went with several other workers to a location in Louisiana to unload and burn the marijuana Wednesday night then returned to Port Bienville just after midnight Thursday," the investigator said.

"The longshoreman apparently got back on board the boat and took a garbage bag containing about four pounds of pot from the boat," Ladner noted.

"When he was leaving the dock area a guard stopped Smith and called the sheriff's department," the investigator said.

"Capt. Paul Bernard and Deputy David Garcia responded to the call and arrested Smith and confiscated the garbage bag of marijuana. A small amount of the substance was found in his possession," Ladner added.

Smith was released on a $5,000 property bond.

The investigator said Smith's arrest led to the Friday discovery of some 100 pounds of pot stashed in a ceiling of the tug.

Waveland board studies drainage

By BRENT MACEY

The Waveland Board of Aldermen Wednesday night decided to study a proposal requesting the city join Hancock County and the City of Bay St. Louis in submitting a preapplication form to receive funds for a comprehensive drainage plan for the southern portion of Hancock County.

Dr. Michael Smith, president of Advanced Development Inc. Engineers who made the proposal at the meeting, said $780,000 in construction funds are available to three coastal counties from the Coastal Energy Impact Program through the Bureau of Marine Resources in Gulfport.

He informed the aldermen the Hancock County Supervisors have authorized his firm to prepare a free preapplication form and also agreed to pay $2,400 to the firm for submitting a full application if the preapplication form is approved.

Smith said a drainage plan for the southern part of the county is 'essential to maintain good roads' and that 'there is a great need for this type of program.'

He stated recreation projects are being given 'top priority' and asked the board consider improvements to the beach area.

Hancock UW ups funding

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

For the first time in several years United Way of Hancock County has increased contributions to more than half of its 14 recipient agencies.

The increases amount to an almost $4,000.

At a recent United Way Board of Directors' meeting at the Coast Electric Power Association building, Conrad Mauffray of Bay St. Louis, local UW executive director, reported that based on his calculations of donations and pledges, the organization would have some $3,204 to distribute to its agencies.

Funds would be drawn from the United Way's reserve monies to pay the approximate $600 more needed to meet agency allocation increases.

Norton Haas Sr. of Bay St. Louis, board president, said a committee consisting of himself, Mauffray and May Beyer of Bay St. Louis, executive secretary, had met and formulated a schedule for distribution of the extra funds.

After a lengthy discussion of reasons for and against increases the board voted to increase annual donations to: —Hancock County Emergency Relief READY FOR QUEST—Puma Drilling Co. of Natchez recently completed drilling a 13,500-foot well on Hwy 643 just north of the I-10 interchange and set 5.5-inch casings in preparation for testing and possible production. Harry Spooner, general partner in Spooner Petroleum, said Friday morning in Jackson that in three weeks the pipe will be perforated at a level where the Mooringsport formation is thought to be located and hopefully yield usable natural gas. The company official explained that perforation is performed by lowering an electronically activated gun down the well which shoots holes in the pipe. The test well is located east of the gas abundant Waveland Field, but wells drilled further east in the vicinity of the Spooner well have not yielded marketable natural gas. UNLOADING THE DON PACHO—Workers at Port Bienville Industrial Park unload an estimated 45 tons of marijuana from the 110-foot sea going tug Don Pachó Tuesday. The boat was sighted 200 miles south of Grand Isle, La. Monday and pursued approximately 250 miles by the U.S. Coast Guard before being boarded. U.S. Justice Department Drug Enforcement Agency officials said the ship was flying a Honduran flag when boarded. Information received from the State Department after contacting Honduran officials revealed no boat of that description is known to be under Honduran registry. Officials said they believed the boat and marijuana are from Columbia. (Staff photo by Brent Macey)

TRUCKING MARIJUANA—This tractor trailer is ready to leave the Port Bienville Industrial Park after being loaded with marijuana confiscated from the sea going tug Don Pachó Tuesday. U.S. Drug Enforcement Agency officials said the marijuana would be transported to an undisclosed area in Louisiana for burning. Some 14 crew members believed to be from Columbia were dropped off in Slidell and scheduled to be arraigned in New Orleans federal court Wednesday. Federal officials said assistance received from area law enforcement agencies 'was terrific'...we could not have done the job without them.' (Staff photo by Brent Macey)

Insurance an issue with city windmills

By BRENT MACEY

Problems still exist between the City of Bay St. Louis and utility companies over cost and type of insurance necessary for five power-producing windmills in the city.

Nonetheless, all five windmills are currently producing electricity and have been since early December and the middle of January.

Omer DeBeaver, engineer for the windmill project, told the Bay St. Louis City Council Tuesday that two windmills at Bay Senior High School are currently being monitored by meters installed by Coast Electric Power Association.

That company services Bay High School.

The meters installed Feb. 6 indicate a combined total savings of $1.44 from both windmills during the first week, DeBeaver said.

Mississippi Power Company, which provides electrical service to Bay St. Louis City Hall, the Bay St. Louis Police and Fire Departments, has not installed any meters for the windmills located in those areas.

DeBeaver told the council a 'verbal agreement' exists between Coast Electric and the city over deleting a clause in an interconnection agreement contract requiring the city to obtain a $300,000 insurance policy for the windmills located at Bay High.

DeBeaver said Mississippi Power Company requires a $1 million insurance policy in a similar contract before they will install any metering devices.

DeBeaver said Thursday a 'misunderstanding' exists between the city and the utility companies because the power companies want insurance to cover both accidents involving the public and accidents involving utility company employees working on lines connected with the wind mills.

"We do not object to obtaining insurance for accidents for our own sake but we do object to obtaining it for the utility companies," DeBeaver said.

He stated the power companies are afraid of high voltage 'feeding back' from the windmills during a power black out and electrocuting company employees working on the lines.

"The possibilities of that happening are very remote," DeBeaver said.

DeBeaver said the windmills are designed with 'brakes' which automatically stop the windmill from turning during a power outage thus stopping any reverse current flow.

DeBeaver said he informed the companies two months ago that the city would bypass the power companies contract and that is exactly what we did.

He also informed the council that he has contacted the U. S. Department of Energy regarding the attitude the power companies have taken.

DeBeaver said he is currently waiting on legal ruling from the department on whether the companies can demand the type of insurance policy now being required.

In further business, the council:

—Authorized advertising for administrative services for a three year $1,666,000 Housing Urban Development Community Development Block Grant.

—Approved joining with Hancock County in seeking funds available through Coastal Energy Impact Program for three coast counties. Dr. Michael Smith, president of Advanced Development Inc. Engineers, said $780,000 is available in construction funds for a comprehensive drainage plan for the southern region of the county. The Hancock County Board of Supervisors agreed Tuesday to have Smith fill out the preapplication form for free and that $2,400 will be charged by Smith for a full application if the preapplication is approved.

—Authorized installment of curbing in Spanish Acres Subdivision.

—Directed council attorney Joseph Gex to see about obtaining a permanent right-of-way easement to a city well located on Alcan Cable property. The company informed the board it was not interested in purchasing the well.

ticipate in the program, Williams added.

Robert Kane of Bay St. Louis, chamber retail committee chairman, said the chamber will supply seminar participants with special markers which leave invisible identifying marks on valuables.

The police department is equipped with an infrared light which will cause the markings to become visible, thus enabling them to notify the rightful owners when stolen goods are recovered, Kane reported.

The Crime Prevention Unit of the New Orleans Police Department will supervise the public seminar on burglary prevention, both for homes and businesses.

Kane said the chamber also will assist the Bay Police in financing the endeavor.

"An NOPD Crime Prevention Unit van will be open for inspection at the seminar, Williams said.

Representatives of private security firms will participate in the seminar, Williams noted, but the chief said many methods of burglary prevention will be discussed in addition to use of expensive alarm systems.

Kane said area businessmen are urged to attend the Thursday, March 5, session which will be devoted to prevention in commercial establishments.

The general public is invited to the Friday session which will deal primarily with security of the home, Williams added.

The seminars will be conducted from 6 to 10 p.m. each night. Admission is free.

Smith said 20 percent matching funds will be required from the city if the program is accepted.

Mayor John Longo agreed that a drainage plan is necessary but questioned how the city could fund such a project.

"He stated he feared the council would be getting into a non budgeted item" and asked Smith to come to the next meeting with more information on possible funding.

In other business, the board:

—Approved a $2,000 payment to Moore and Powell Certified Public Accountants for auditing work on the city sewer system project.

—Kept bids for a Cushman Scooter, sewer cleaner and police air conditioner under advisement.

—Kept bids on Middletown property for clearance under advisement.

—Authorized advertising for a two ton chassis for a city garbage truck.

—Authorized a $756 land sale back to W.

Van Maner and $136 land sale back to William B. Young.

—Approved a parade permit to Krewe of Nereids for Sunday, Feb. 22, at 2 p.m.

—Accepted the retirement of Nancy Gex from the Hancock County Library System Board of Trustees and recommended Harriet Bellone for the position.

City Clerk and Alderman Barbara Rappold and Jack Toomey were both absent from the meeting.

New local real estate brokers, salesmen told

Several local residents were among some 160 Mississippians passing State Real Estate Commission broker's examinations in December and January.

J. Daniel Schroeder, administrator for the commission, notes the 160 passing the tests are eligible to practice as real estate brokers.

Local residents who are now qualified brokers include Louis F. Jez of Waveland, D. Lee Prince of Bay St. Louis and Chama Richardson of Long Beach.

Some 348 people took the state broker's exam in December or January.

The new salesmen are:

Marlene E. Goss, Judy S. Gamewell, Mary J. Harvey, Charles J. Radi, Eugene O. Richardson, Allen Shapter and John F. Wheelock, all of Bay St. Louis; Brenda L. Burke, Davie F. Fabella, Jacqueline Klusendorf and John I. Klusendorf, all of Waveland; Russell W. Ellis and Patricia L. Knox, both of Pass Christian; and Linda A. Bryant, Dorothy E. Johnson, Robert D. Ketchum, Debra L. Lear and Dee F. Varga, all of Long Beach.

The successful candidates were among 518 who took the exams recently.

Area residents were also among some 323 statewide passing the real estate salesmen exams during both months combined.

Man's death ruled suicide; teen recovering

By BRENT MACEY

Investigations by the Hancock County Coroner, Hancock General Hospital pathologist and State Crime Laboratory in Gulfport indicate the death of a 21-year-old Bay St. Louis resident Monday night was the result of a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Karl Korndorffer was found dead at his residence, 120 Citizens Street, by his father Robert Korndorffer about 10 p.m. Monday.

Bay St. Louis Police Chief Douglas Williams said Korndorffer was found on the floor of a rear screened porch with a 22 caliber rifle lying diagonally across his chest, his head in a pool of blood.

Williams said a note to the effect "I am not suited for this world" was discovered by his father.

Difficulty in identifying the wounds lead Williams to consult Jim Miles and Joe Andrews of the Gulfport crime laboratory, Bruce Necaice acting as Hancock County Coroner, and pathologist J.D. Rutherford III, MD, of Hancock General Hospital.

Williams said X-rays determined a gunshot wound "entered the right side of Korndorffer's head and exited through the left side about an inch above his ear."

The chief said the small caliber of the bullet caused the initial difficulty in locating the wounds.

Other investigating officers at the scene include Matt Karl, Lieutenant Gordon Campbell, Assistant Auxiliary Chief Dan Plaisance, and Patrolmen Wilbert Dorsey and Richard Trudell, all of the Bay St. Louis Police Department.

Funeral arrangements were handled by Riemann Fahey Funeral Home.

WAVELAND TEEN

A 17-year-old Waveland girl who apparently suffered a self inflicted gunshot wound Sunday is listed in satisfactory condition, according to Hancock General Hospital Administrator Phillip Langston.

Langston said Thursday she is expected to make a full recovery.

Waveland Police Chief Donald Dorn said the girl was hospitalized Sunday, Feb. 15 for treatment of a 22 caliber bullet wound in her abdomen.

Investigators from the Waveland Police Department said they had been told the incident occurred after a lovers' quarrel.

Dorn said the girl drove her car to her sister's house for assistance after the shooting.

Waveland Fire Chief Kenneth Fayard who was passing the house was flagged down, Dorn said. Fayard brought the girl to the hospital.

Bits 'n pieces

Mardi Gras gets into full swing today with Nereids rolling through the streets of Waveland.

This parade will mark the 15th for this wonderful ladies organization, and each parade seems to be better than the previous one.

We hope all of you will enjoy this free entertainment and try to catch a doubloon.

So, throw your cares away and visit Waveland today!

The parade starts at 2 p.m.

The Hancock County School System seems to have suffered unnecessary vandalism in recent weeks.

Educators now have enough problems without having to worry about slashed tires and broken windows.

We hope the culprits are caught and then made to pay back the damages plus much more.

We thought we lived in an intelligent society, but there seems to still be some idiot parents and idiot kids.

Laws have gone too far to protect juveniles, just like the courts for adults.

We may learn some day to handle criminals like criminals.

The illegal dumping situation in Hancock County seems to continue being dumped off.

We realize it is an expensive operation to properly maintain dumps, but ignoring the problem is not the answer.

Baseball is right around the corner with basketball closing. The interest in basketball seems to improve with larger attendance this season from reports we have received.

We hope everyone will try to attend as many baseball games as possible this spring.

It feels real good to be home after a two week stay in the hospital.

Of course it will feel better when I am able to resume my regular schedule and get back to work.

Again thanks to everyone for their concern about my well-being.

Read a story in the Daily about several persons being killed by poisoned moonshine.

Many of you remember Jerry Whittle, former managing editor of The Sea Coast Echo.

Jerry is publisher of the newspaper in Thompson, Ga. The community with the dateline on the moonshine story.

We hope Jerry did not learn any moonshine secrets during his stay in Hancock County and try them in Georgia.

Have a good day Jerry! Your friends still inquire about you.

The Bottom Line

Candid Answers To Your Questions
About Advertising and Business Topics.

I've read all your pieces, but I'm not sure how to put an ad together. The newspaper folks always do it like I ask them to, but I'd like a few tips on what to tell them. Dry Goods Merchant.

Dear DGM: You asked for it, so I'll try to give a quick outline for the main ad components.

A memory guide that's been around for some time is AID(C)A. The letters stand for Attention, Interest, Desire, Conviction (optional), and Action.

Attention is usually via an illustration and/or prominent headline.

Illustrations may be photos or drawings of 1) the product, 2) people, 3) people with the product, 4) the product in use, or 5) abstract, to create a mood or other desired emotion. In addition to attention it should also help sell and lead the reader to the head and copy.

Headlines should address the prospect—emphasizing the "you" rather than the "we." The most effective way to present a benefit in a headline is with a newsy head. And the headline may also select specific prospects as: "Men," "Men over 40," etc.

Copy is selling in print. Here you give your sales pitch. Some ad writers use an approach reported by an early text writer, Clyde Bedell. Using this approach, you first detail the need the prospect has for the product.

Secondly, you give the sales pitch, which Bedell called the proposition. He suggests that you list the most obvious benefit, then the most long-lasting benefit, and, thirdly, the most dramatic (to get action now) in this sequence—this 3-benefit copy is sometimes used alone for short ads.

Thirdly, for long copy, Bedell says the profit should be outlined; and then fourthly, proof that everything you have said is true. To do this, use guarantees, testimonials, statistics, tests, etc., to prove the whole case.

Then finally, some reason and means for the reader to act now. You may give a number to call, or a box to write. But you need to limit time, quantity, or give a limited bonus in order to get immediate response.

This approach, presented in a generous space featuring a product for which there is a reasonable demand, should produce results when published in a newspaper that reaches your prospects.

There's no guarantee, but if you use this approach, you'll be assured of having employed the best and most frequently proven methods developed in the past half century.

You may do a lot less and get results, but once in while it would be wise to develop your own ads following the outline above. The space would cost the same, and if you should get more sales, the cost per unit would be lowered.

Captain of The Krewe

FIFTEENTH ANNIVERSARY—The Krewe of Nereids this year is celebrating its 15th year of bringing mirth and pagentry to Hancock County residents and visitors with its annual balls and parades. The organization's ball outgrew local facilities and had to move to the Mississippi Coast Coliseum in Biloxi last year, and the Nereids captain reports the parade is attracting such large crowds in recent years it may be necessary to move that event from the narrow streets of Waveland near the beach to US-90 next year. The Sea Coast Echo salutes the Krewe of Nereids on its anniversary year and offers congratulations to the group on its continued growth. Nereids takes its floats and marchers through Waveland today beginning at 2 p.m. Don't miss it!

5th District, Mississippi

A QUICK BUDGET- CUTTING QUIZ

What would you say if someone stopped you on the street and asked whether you support cuts in federal spending?

If you're like most Mississippians and, in fact, most Americans, your response would come quickly, and it would be a resounding "YES."

But what if your questioner asked for specific programs which you believed could be trimmed or eliminated at a savings of billions of dollars without touching the basic role of government.

Your responses might take a little longer, because you would want to be fair to the people in our country who depend on certain federal programs for survival. And, you would want to be fair to the American taxpayers who foot the bill for every penny of federal spending.

I spent a good part of last week going through a document which has become known informally in some circles as the "black book." It contains spending cuts that President Reagan will soon present to Congress in a formal way.

Substantial cuts are proposed across the spectrum as the Reagan administration tries to get control of runaway federal spending and double-digit inflation. Some of the cuts will face rough sledding.

To show how difficult the decisions will be, consider the following: Which programs would go under the knife first, which would be spared?

I think it might be helpful if you took this budget-cutting quiz for yourself and made some tough decisions in your own mind.

—Would you cut arts and humanities programs or funding for highways, mass transit or urban renewal?

—Would you cut programs through the Economic Development Administration, like wastewater treatment works construction, or the Postal Service, which could curtail delivery schedules?

—Would you cut the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) or child nutrition programs and food stamps?

—Would you cut rural development programs or trade adjustment assistance, which compensates American workers who are laid off because of imports?

—Would you cut the Export-Import Bank or the CETA program?

These are the types of programs which will be under review as our nation's economic problems are confronted by Congress and the Reagan administration. I think it's important that when you talk about reducing federal spending, you talk in terms of specific programs.

AMERICA SHOULD COME FIRST

When the budget-cutters in the Reagan administration got hold of foreign aid, they sharpened their pencils. Judging from the accounts which surfaced last week, substantial cuts in virtually every area of foreign aid will be a priority.

I couldn't agree more.

President Reagan's budget director, my former House colleague Dave Stockman, has proposed the largest cutback of U.S. foreign aid since its inception in the aftermath of World War II.

The plan would slice enormous chunks out of every phase of development assistance, tie it closely to American political interests and make it subsidiary to military aid," according to one newspaper account.

The proposal, which remains to be finalized and presented to Congress, would cut $2.6 billion from our staggering foreign aid tab. The total would come down to $5.47 billion.

Leaving some of this money at home and away from the hands of foreign governments means putting America and Americans first.

L.R.S. HARASSMENT OF CHURCH SCHOOLS

Actions by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) which threaten the tax-exempt status and survival of Mississippi's church-operated schools should be halted, Congressman Trent Lott has told the new IRS commissioner.

In a meeting last week in Lott's Washington office, the Mississippi Congressman told incoming IRS Commissioner Roscoe Egger he believes the tax-exempt status of church schools is protected by the First Amendment and must be retained.

The basic issue, Lott said, is continuing harassment of church-related and private schools in Mississippi by IRS due to a court ruling which applied solely to Mississippi.

Under the ruling and a subsequent "sweetheart deal," the IRS is conducting an extensive investigation of schools in Mississippi.

"The attitude of the IRS has been that these church-operated schools are guilty until they prove themselves innocent," Lott said. "It is an attitude which flies in the face of principles of law."

Schools in Mississippi are the only ones affected by the court ruling.

Congressional action has prohibited the expenditure of federal funds to revoke existing tax exemptions, Lott said.

"The First Amendment should protect church-operated schools from harassment by federal bureaucrats," Lott said. "Further, in my opinion, the IRS is defying the law by putting money and manpower into this project."

"I asked and was assured by the commissioner that, in view of congressional action and unfair treatment of my state, he would review this situation," Lott said. "The First Amendment must take precedence over IRS operations."

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE

Edwin Lloyd Pittman
Secretary of State

In response to many citizens' requests, the Secretary of State's office is supporting reformative legislation in a number of areas.

The Land Division is backing a bill asking that the Legislature consider the proper rental of 18th section lands that are rented for residential or farm residential purposes.

The legislative intent as to residential and farm residential is unclear. An Attorney General's opinion treats residential and farm residential properties the same as commercial and industrial.

The Land Division and the local school boards are seeking legislative guidance with regard to residential and farm residential.

A series of bills have been introduced in the Legislature calling for improvement in the Notary Public Laws. These include statewide jurisdiction and a requirement that a notary be able to read and write the English language.

The bills provide for a duty of reasonable care and for penalties for impersonating a notary. Let your legislators have the benefit of your thoughts about these matters.

The Secretary of State serves as a member of the State Election Commission. In this area, the Secretary of State's office and State Election Commission have recommended that Mississippi amend the necessary laws so that we will have a direct vote for president instead of the requirement that we vote for presidential electors.

Additionally, this office is advocating a Uniform Ballot for all elections with an equitable system of determining the placement of candidates and parties.

The Uniform Securities Act with some modifications has been introduced for passage by the State Legislature with the support of the Secretary of State. This Act will ensure continued protection for the citizens of our state and will be beneficial to the Securities Industry.

The Act is designed to prevent fraud in transactions involving securities such as stocks and bonds.

Criminal penalties for unlawful acts are prescribed, and buyers of securities may bring a civil suit to recover the cost of the securities if they have been defrauded. Adoption of a modified form of the uniform Securities Act will facilitate security transactions, and will bring Mississippi in line with accepted procedures in other states, the Securities Exchange Commission, and the National Association of Security Dealers.

The Secretary of State's Publications Division is for the first time publishing the Senate Journal on a daily basis. Minutes of each day's session are picked up from the Senate by this office in the late afternoon. Type is set during the night, and the copies are produced early in the morning.

A printed record of the previous day's activities is on each Senator's desk when he arrives for work the next day.

Final preparation for publishing the Senate and House Journals should be accomplished soon after adjournment of this Session.

The implementation of the system of having the type set daily will mean delivery at the end of June instead of the end of December.

In an effort to improve our delivery of services to Mississippians, two attorneys of this office have recently attended continuing education programs.

Assistant Secretary of State Beth C. Clay attended the U.S. Small Business Administrations Advocacy Conference held in Dallas, Texas, during December.

This meeting was an out growth of President Carter's White House conference on Small Business and was the second annual Small Business Advocacy Conference.

Mrs. Clay is the director of the Corporate Division in the Secretary of State's Office.

Staff Attorney Glenn Rishel of the Securities Division attended a school on Securities Regulations which was conducted in Dallas, Texas, by the Southwestern Legal Foundation.

This course was an intensive four day training program in Securities Regulations and Federal Securities Laws.

Peptic Ulcers Plague Millions in America

Peptic ulcer is one of the more common causes of ill health in man.

Ulcers occur when small areas of the digestive tract become unable to withstand the action of the digestive juices secreted by the stomach. Ulcers occur most often in the first eight to ten inches of the small intestine (the duodenum). They also occur in the stomach and sometimes in the lower portion of the gullet.

All ulcers are much more likely to affect men than women. Each year, says a pamphlet from the American Medical Association, more than three million Americans develop ulcers. More than 15 per cent of the population will have an ulcer at some time in their lives.

The true cause is believed to be an excess of gastric juice that, in effect, burns a hole in the membrane lining of the duodenum or stomach.

Heredity may be a factor. Environmental stress and emotional upsets are involved. Many rheumatoid arthritis patients also have ulcers, as do individuals with chronic pulmonary diseases.

Most ulcers bleed, sometimes so profusely that surgery is required.

The first symptom is pain, a gnawing, burning or dull ache. There also is heartburn, nausea, vomiting, and a feeling of fullness and weakness. Pain is worse when the stomach is empty and subsides when food or an antacid is taken. Alcohol, coffee and nervous tension aggravate ulcers.

Treatment involves neutralizing the acids, plus counseling to help the sufferer cope better with emotional stress. Surgery is performed for ulcers only as a last resort.

There isn't much the individual can do to prevent ulcers, other than "stay calm," and your doctor is well aware that this sometimes is difficult or impossible.

SOUTH STREET EYESORE—Residents of Clermont Harbor and Waveland who use South Street in their daily comings and goings are complaining of the aesthetic disgrace and health hazard being created by unauthorized dumping on the L&N

Railroad right-of-way along South Street, especially near the north gate of Buccannier State Park. Such an eyesore must make some nice impression on our guests visiting the park. P.S.—Visitors do not dump stoves and mattresses.

Fund from $4,000 to $5,000;
—Boy Scouts of America-New Orleans Area Council from $3,500 to $4,000;

—Girl Scouts-Gulf Pines Council from $2,750 to $3,250;
—Catholic Social Services from $2,250 to $2,500;

—United Service Organization-Worldwide (USO) from $300 to $400;
—Goodwill Industries of South Mississippi from $600 to $1,200;

—Mississippi Council on Epilepsy, Inc. from $300 to $500;

—Salvation Army from $300 to $1,000.
Explaining the committee's decision for the increases, Beyer stated the County Emergency Relief Fund and Salvation Army have spent enormous amounts of money to assist the local Red Cross in providing temporary housing for families losing their homes in fires and sheltered numerous penniless transients.

Haas said increases to Boy and Girl Scouts have been long overdue and the proposed allotments were only a small fraction of funds requested by the organizations.

Maufray, noted Catholic Social Services is in dire need of increased assistance because the organization has spent tens of thousands of dollars assisting unwed mothers and poor people of the county—only receiving a relatively minute contribution from the local United Way.

The executive director noted USO's contribution had been decreased in previous lean campaign years and was increased up to its original allocation figure.

Maufray said Goodwill's funding was increased to help defer the majority of rent money for its larger store location on Necaise Avenue in Bay St. Louis.

"When Goodwill first moved to our county we agreed to pay rent for its store, but with the recent move to a larger location monthly rent has more than doubled," he explained.

"The proposed increase will pay about two-thirds of Goodwill's present monthly rent," Maufray stated.

Beyer said the Epilepsy Council is one of the newest agencies added to receive local funding, but serves many local epileptic residents.

She said the previous $300 served as an introductory figure for the council, but the agency has now shown a genuine need for an increase.

Agencies not receiving increases and their annual allocations are:

—Local United Way's operating budget, $2,500;

—American Red Cross-Hancock County Chapter, $4,000;

—Senior Citizen Programs, $3,000;

—Gulf Coast Mental Health Center, $2,000;

—Retired Senior Volunteer Program, $3,300;

—Hancock County Blood Bank, $500;

—Firemen's Doll and Toy Fund, $500.

Haas reported the Red Cross did not receive an increase because the County Board of Supervisors had reduced its contribution to United Way from $1,000 to $500.

The board president noted the supervisors donated the funds to support Red Cross through United Way, so now the organization would have to generate $500 for Red Cross from other sources.

Haas said federal and-or state funding for Senior Citizen Programs, RSVP and mental health were relatively stable and those agencies do not need increases as much as other agencies.

Maufray reported the Blood Bank, Doll and Toy Fund and United Way operations are receiving adequate funding.

Last year the local organization's budget totalled $29,900.

This year's budget is $33,850.

Board members attending the budget meeting were Paul Lewis, Genevieve Daniels, Dick Koebe and Wayne Ducomb Jr.

Ladner believes longshoremen hid the weed while unloading the vessel at Port Bienville.

The investigator said officials of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Agency were informed of his find.

He said measures are now being taken to avoid any further thefts of contraband.

Regarding the Bay St. Louis arrest, Ladner reported, "Craig R. Geoffrey, 27, of 2130 Ulman Avenue in Bay St. Louis was arrested Friday night and charged with possession of about two grams of cocaine valued at approximately $150 and a small amount of marijuana."

"Geoffrey was also charged with resisting arrest," Ladner added.

The investigator said Geoffrey is being held in the County Jail in Bay St. Louis under $5,000 bond with a hearing set Saturday at 2 p.m. before Justice Court Judge John Chevis.

"Geoffrey was stopped by sheriff's deputies on Beach Boulevard near Union Street in Bay St. Louis for driving his automobile with an improper tag. He had a Louisiana tag and has been living in the Bay," Ladner stated.

"When stopped Geoffrey was observed stuffing something into his pants," the investigator noted.

"A pat down of the subject revealed paraphernalia which is used to snort cocaine," Ladner said.

"When I began to search him for contraband he ran toward the waterfront, but he was tackled by Deputy Glen Jackson before reaching the seawall," the investigator explained.

Ladner said assisting in the arrest were Deputies Ray Murphy and Mike Whittaker, and officers of Bay St. Louis and Waveland Police Departments.

Local man booked in booze burglary

By BRENT MACEY

A Bay St. Louis man has been arrested and charged with breaking and entering and burglary of the Dunbar Liquor Store.

Rond has been set at $3,000, according to Police Chief Douglas Williams. Williams said William Shumski, 31, originally was arrested near his residence on Carroll Avenue Wednesday night at approximately 5:45 p.m. and charged with disturbing the peace and resisting arrest.

Williams said further investigation by himself and Investigator Matt Karl Thursday linked Shumski with the alleged liquor store theft.

The chief said the liquor store was broken into approximately 9:30 a.m. Wednesday.

"The window was broken, half-gallon and fifth bottles of vodka were stolen," the chief said.

Williams said Shumski is presently in Hancock County Jail.

Top accreditation ratings slated for county schools

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Billy D. Sills, Hancock County School District superintendent of education, reports all county schools will receive maximum AA accreditation by the State Accreditation Commission in April.

All county schools recently received accreditation by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

In addition, the County School Board Wednesday accepted the now-completed special education complex adjacent to Hancock North Central Elementary and full utilization of the facility is expected in about one week.

Some two years ago HNC Junior and Senior High Schools, located next to the elementary school near the White Cypress Community, were given minimum state accreditation, but local officials were warned the schools could lose state accreditation unless improvements were undertaken.

Sills says Dale Holloway of Jackson, elementary education accreditation and accountability supervisor for the State Department of Education, and Dr. Marvin White of Poplarville, Pearl River Junior College president and a commission member, said they will recommend to the state group that full AA accreditation be granted to the county schools.

"Their recommendations will be presented at the April meeting of the commission in which our schools will be considered along with accreditation suggestions for several other schools,"

Sills explains.

"They found no deficiencies at the elementary, junior and senior high schools," the superintendent reports.

"Almost a year ago, last March, HNC was on the verge of losing accreditation. Now all those schools will be accredited with maximum AA state accreditation," Sills stated.

The state issues minimum, A and AA accreditation to schools based on a list of criteria established by the commission.

Sills cites, "For instance, to receive AA accreditation 15 percent or more of the teachers at each school must have a master's degree. Some 25 percent of the teachers at the elementary and junior high have these degrees."

"The only thing the commission representatives suggested was rerouting Cuevas Town Road around the campus," the superintendent notes. Sills adds the road was in existence before the school was constructed.

"But last year there were no signs on the road indicating a school zone. These signs have been installed indicating a 10 mile-per-hour zone," Sills says.

"The visiting accreditation committee was complimentary of our work to correct previously noted deficiencies at HNC," the superintendent reports.

"They said there had been dramatic improvements undertaken to improve the physical facilities since their inspection last year and a lot of work accomplished to upgrade education for our children," he notes.

Sills said the two-man committee inspected HNC for some three hours, met with administrators and talked briefly with school board members who were also inspecting the complex.

SPECIAL ED COMPLEX

The superintendent notes acceptance of the special education facility alleviated several deficiencies cited by the state commission.

"This facility contains six classrooms of 720 square feet each as required by state and federal governments. Each room has a restroom and water fountain," he reports.

"This is one of the most modern school buildings on the Mississippi Gulf Coast," Sills says.

"One of the rooms in the complex is constructed for special education of trainable mentally retarded students and contains shower facilities and a special water fountain for handicapped," he explains.

The new building also houses the elementary principal's office, reception area, a teacher work room and lounge, and a fireproof vault. Most of these were cited as deficiencies last year," Sills noted.

The superintendent says an open-house for the new facility will be in late March or early April.

Sills said teachers have started moving equipment and work materials into the facility, some furniture has arrived and classes should begin by the end of this week.

State preparing suit against school leaders

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

District Attorney Albert Nicaise of Gulfport Saturday said he along with state and county law enforcement officials are assisting the State Attorney General's office to prepare a civil suit against the superintendent of education and board members of Hancock County School District.

The action is a result of an investigation of repair work by contractors of some $380,000 in repair work at Gulfview Elementary School in Lakeshore after a May tornado heavily damaged the facility.

Nicaise said grounds of the lawsuit would be that proper procedure was not followed in hiring contractors for reconstruction work at the school.

He did not know when the suit would be filed or which local court would hear the case—chancery or circuit court.

"Under the law the district attorney assists in civil cases. Hancock County Sheriff Ronald A. Peterson, Investigator Delbert Seay, and Investigator Robert Parker with the State Highway Patrol are also assisting in the case," Nicaise explained.

"The local sheriff's office and Parker would be witnesses for the state," he added.

The district attorney said he, Peterson, Seay, Parker and a state auditor met in Jackson for several hours Thursday with Lloyd Arnold and Peter Cajoleas, both state attorney general assistants.

"We looked at information Peterson and Parker had collected and discussed the possibility of recovering any misspent funds," Nicaise reported.

The district attorney would not reveal how much money he would try to recover, but did say, "The superintendent and each board member is protected by a $10,000 bond. The bonding company would be responsible for up to $10,000 each then the individuals concerned will be liable."

Turan elected to Chevrolet dealer group

Harmon E. Turan of Bay St. Louis has been elected to the 1981 Chevrolet Dealer Council for the New Orleans Zone.

"Turan, of Turan-Lane Chevrolet, Inc. in Bay St. Louis, was elected to the council by his fellow dealers and participated in recent zone meetings," a company spokesman said recently in Warren, Mich.

"Eight regional dealer meetings will be conducted in advance of an April Chevrolet National Dealer Council meeting in Detroit, Mich.," the spokesman reported.

"The Council, first founded in 1937, is organized in order for dealers and manufacturers to discuss areas of interests of nearly 6,000 Chevrolet dealers," the spokesman explained.

POPULAR TRAGEDY—Discovering Claudius in prayer, Hamlet debates whether to kill him and avenge his father's death in a scene from the upcoming University of New Orleans production of Shakespeare's "Hamlet." Portraying Claudius, the king, is stage and television actor Herb Davis, right, with Dennis Smith as Hamlet. The UNO production will be staged February 20-22 and 26-28 in the UNO Performing Arts Center.

Dr. Seuss books given by Friends

In celebration of Dr. Seuss' 77th birthday March 2, the Friends of the Library have donated 25 Dr. Seuss books to the Hancock County Library children's collection.

Born in 1905, Theodor Seuss Geisel, better known as Dr. Seuss, has authored and illustrated over 40 children's books.

The Cat in the Hat, first published in 1957, was written because of an article by John Hersey in Life magazine objecting to supplemental readers used in elementary schools.

Published by Random House, the book started a new trend in children's literature—imaginative books written for children who are just beginning to read.

Soon both children and adults became Dr. Seuss fans. In 1980, Dr. Seuss won the Laura Ingalls Wilder Award presented by the Association of Library Service to Children, a division of the American Library Association.

Dr. Seuss books donated by the Friends of the Library include The Cat in the Hat Comes Back, Dr. Seuss's ABC, Happy Birthday to You!, Horton Hatches the Egg, Fox in Socks, Horton Hears a Who, I Can Read With My Eyes Shut, If I Ran the Zoo, Marvin K. Mooney, Will You Please Go Now!, and Yertle the Turtle and Other Stories.

These books along with other Dr. Seuss books can be borrowed from any library in the Hancock County Library System.

Library acquires National Historic District document

The Hancock County Library has just received from the State of Mississippi, Department of Archives and History, a final and complete copy of the BEACH BOULEVARD HISTORIC DISTRICT NATIONAL REGISTER nomination. Included in the nomination are the criteria under which included properties were evaluated for nomination. This document is available for reference and inspection, and the public is invited to come by the City-County Library on US-90 in Bay St. Louis to inspect this publication.

WHITTLING AWAY—Chris Hall of Waveland chops a hunk of fuselage off a DC-4 aircraft at Stennis International Airport with a power saw. Hall purchased the plane in September to sell its aluminum as scrap. He hoped to have the aircraft completely chopped up by November, but numerous problems including illness, injuries and equipment failures have plagued the scrap metal entrepreneur. Hall says he knows the plane is an eyesore and hopes to have it completely demolished soon. The plane was blown off an airport apron last year by a tornado and sustained heavy damage. The aircraft was confiscated several years ago by U.S. Customs agents after flying several tons of marijuana into Stennis. The plane was then sold, but was damaged after rolling off an airport apron. While repairs were underway near the airport terminal the tornado lifted the plane northeast just a few hundred yards southwest of Pearl River Junior College Vocational-Technical Center shown in background. Treutel named to committee

David A. Treutel, president of Peoples Federal Savings and Loan Association in Bay St. Louis has been appointed to the 1981 Committee on Neighborhood and Smaller City Institutions of the U.S. League of Savings Associations. The appointment was reported recently by Rollin D. Barnard, president of the league and president of Midland Federal Savings and Loan Association in Denver, Colo.

"The league is the principal trade organization for the savings and loan business and represents over 4,400 associations throughout the country," Barnard said. "Savings and loan associations are the second largest type of financial institution in America and specialize in attracting savings accounts for investment primarily in home mortgage loans," he added.

Local learning disability group hears expert advice

Dr. James Wold, a speech pathologist from Gulfport, spoke to the Hancock County Chapter for Children with Learning Disabilities recently. Wold informed the group that a child's brain absorbs most knowledge of our language between the ages of zero through 3 years.

"If a child has allergies, ear infections or even undiagnosed middle-ear fluid, he will get behind in language development, which can effect him all his life," Wold said. Wold gave each member a check list which allows a parent to note the age at which a child should be able to follow directions, knows his name and other necessary information if a youngster is lost in a store.

"Inner ear fluid causes poor hearing and thus poor development of necessary learning experiences, medical science can cure ear infections today, but the learning loss caused by not hearing can not be recovered," Wold said.

"School equipment is usually not sophisticated enough to find inner ear fluid, therefore many children are observed to have normal hearing. However, new and more sophisticated equipment shows this hearing loss. These machines are expensive and would have to be shared by school districts. Possibly the state agencies could buy this equipment and lend it to schools," he explained.

"If you think your child is not developing as he should, have him checked. He probably will not outgrow it, his lack of knowledge through his ears becomes a loss," Wold noted.

Local Chapter President Marion Dailey said, "Wold's talk was most informative and educational for all who attended. A copy of his speech is in the Hancock Public Library on the special 'SLD' shelf along with the other literature distributed by Dr. Wold."

The next meeting of the group will be Monday, Feb. 16 at Scaffidi's Wheel Inn Restaurant in Bay St. Louis 6:30 p.m. Parents will discuss problems they have with their children. Karen Pennington of Gulfview Elementary School and Lois Abrams of Hancock North Central School will be attending," Dailey explained. For more information call Dailey at 255-9287.

LOCAL 1980 GOALS

"We have grown from a handful of parents and teachers to a membership of about 20, we have grown in knowledge and understanding of the problems we face as parents of learning disabled children," Dailey reported.

"We have a shelf in the Bay St. Louis public library where we will be placing books, tapes and some speeches by our guest speakers. We will also have a copy of our newsletter in the MACLD section of the library, so as we grow so will our wealth of information and understanding," Dailey explained.

"It is my prayer that in the near future we will be financially able to run and maintain a summer camp for these children with learning disabilities. To do this we must all work together with state and national organizations and our school systems to reach this goal," Dailey noted.

"To get views on how we can improve this chapter, we will send a questionnaire to each member to get ideas on how we can improve our chapter," he reported.

SPECIAL EDUCATION

Dr. Basil Gaar, professor and authority of learning disabilities at the University of Southern Mississippi, discussed good news and bad news regarding special education and how it relates to learning disabled students and adults at a recent meeting.

"Never before have so many people been as aware and as well informed about learning disabled students and adults as today."

Special learning disabled students are receiving help through better methods of learning and material specifically written for them. They have specific learning disabilities, they are not retarded and these students can be remediated," Gaar said.

"Teachers and university professors have more information than professors did 10 years ago. This means we have better informed and trained teachers today than ever before." Also, more teachers of these students are going back to college to get higher degrees and up-dating themselves on new research material," he noted.

"We now have different kinds of classes and self-contained resource rooms. Ten years ago our children would either be in general education classes or special education. There is now more flexibility in the way parents, teachers and administrators can help these students," Gaar stated.

"Now with better testing methods, students have a better chance of being tested in the early grades and placed in the proper class to meet his requirements. Ten years ago too many of these children were not discovered until they were in seventh and eighth grade or even in high school," he noted.

"The newest theory in teaching adolescent SLD students is being researched at the University of Kansas and being tested at the Lawrence, Kan. High Schools. This theory teaches students skills necessary to cope in regular classrooms. The LD teacher works closely with the regular teacher to learn skills needed by every class, Gaar added.

"The State of Mississippi allows classes to have combined special services categories. LD, mentally retarded and behavioral disabilities are often grouped together. This is not fair to any child, an LD must be in his/her own classroom to be remediated, it is correctable in the right environment," Gaar said.

A MR student with an IQ of 70-75 at age six has a mental age of three or four years, this student needs a development program. An LD child has a normal intelligence and is socially adequate. We can not allow this to take place," Gaar stated.

"MACLD met with the State Board of Education and the Children's Defense Fund, who brought the 'Mattie T' case to court. It is now in the federal courts, ACLD has intervened on behalf of LD students. We need to make it against the law to put these students with other exceptional students. If we win, ACLD will be responsible for those students," Gaar said.

"The state department said teachers did not cope. However a questionnaire sent out to SLD teachers only had 1,164 returned (35 percent of those mailed out). Some 78 percent of the teachers that returned the cards said they wanted separate classrooms for each of the exceptionalities. Teachers found it easier to teach the different types of handicapped separately," Gaar explained.

Story Hour to feature Seuss party

The Hancock County Library Children's Department at City-County Branch on US-90 in Bay St. Louis is staging a birthday party Thursday in honor of Dr. Seuss' 77th birthday.

Dr. Seuss has written over 40 children's books including, The Cat in the Hat, How the Grinch Stole Christmas and Horton Hears a Who. Story hour will feature Horton Hatches the Egg and Fox in Socks. Many of Dr. Seuss' books, donated by the Friends of the Hancock County Library System, will be on display and available for borrowing. After the stories cake and punch will be served.

"Help us celebrate with this special story hour Thursday at 10:30 a.m.," said Becky Mitchum, children's services librarian for Hancock County Library.

CONGRESS TITLE

The Continental Congress assumed the new title United States Congress when it assembled for the first time on March 2, 1781, under the Articles of Confederation.

Free counseling offered to troubled businesses

Robert Driegert, Long Beach, chairman of SCORE, has launched a new year of the Service Corps of Retired Executives by offering the services of the organization to small businesses of 11 south Mississippi counties which are facing serious problems in 1981.

"The retired executives give their counseling services free on a first come, first served basis," he noted recently.

Driegert said 1981 will be a real challenge to its 9,000 SCORE members nationwide in assisting small businesses to cope with their problems. He expects the same for the 20-member South Mississippi Chapter, based at Biloxi, which offers free management advisory services to south Mississippi businesses on location.

"Last year was a difficult year for small business," Driegert said.

"Business failures ran 53 percent ahead of 1979, and that year was 14 percent ahead of 1978. This means that many businesses are entering 1981 in a financially weakened condition. The interest rate problem, a generally poor economy and increased competition hurts small business more than large, better capitalized businesses," he explained.

"Volunteers are available to offer management advice on such subjects as sales, promotion, expense control, and cash flow among other problems," Driegert reported.

The chairman said 1981 elected officers and new committee chairman appointments are: Frank Bryan of Ocean Springs as vice chairman and secretary-treasurer is Stone M. Smith of Biloxi. Chairmen appointed include publicity, Harry Woodbury of Gulfport; workshops, Sidney F. Wogan of Ocean Springs; information, Charles L. Munroe of Ocean Springs; and member maintenance, J. Walter Poorman of Biloxi.

"In view of the increased demands on SCORE volunteers local representatives have been appointed to handle community activities. These will be Hancock County, Lawrence Abrams; Gulfport, Ralph Batchelor; Biloxi, Robert Greer; and Jackson County, Edward Mitchell of Ocean Springs," Driegert stated.

"The SCORE organization serves as a volunteer support wing of the Small Business Administration," he added.

BWGC to visit Longvue Gardens in New Orleans

At the regular meeting of Bay-Waveland Garden Club held on February 12 it was announced Bay-Waveland will be well represented during the next year in the Gulf Coast Council of Garden Clubs.

Among officers to be installed by the Coast Council in April are: Alice Holmes—President, Ethel Evans—third vice president, Elda Duke will compete her term as treasurer.

Club members are planning a trip to Longvue Gardens in New Orleans on March 12. An Arbor Day tree planting ceremony was held Friday, February 20 at 11 a.m. at the Bay St. Louis Public Library.

Flower show chairman Aggie Tompkins announced the Flower Show will be held on April 24 and 25 at the Waveland Methodist Church. Pat Lanham announced Gardens of the Month.

They are Mr. and Mrs. Numa Snider, 315 Hillcrest, Waveland, and Mr. and Mrs. John Breeden, 107 Ballentine St., Bay St. Louis.

Mr. John Davis, Area Agricultural Specialist with Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service showed slides and gave some useful hints on the care of house plants. Betty Burnett, chairman introduced the hostesses for the meeting. They were: Joan Breeden, Ethel Crowley, Gerlie Hutton, Edna Klein-peter, Pat Lanham, Alma Parker, Pat Schott and Lillian Wise.

Snider at 315 Hillcrest St. in Waveland, the home selected that city's February Garden of the Month by the Bay-Waveland Garden Club. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

Wilkinson, Pate plan March 21 wedding

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Wilkinson of Bay St. Louis, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Rhonda Joan to Richard Paul Pate, also of Bay St. Louis.

The prospective groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Pate of Georgetown, Tex. He is the Deputy Chief of the Diamondhead Fire Department. The ceremony will take place at 2 p.m. Saturday, March 21 in the rustic surroundings of McLeod State Park.

A reception will follow at the Jourdan River Shores Clubhouse.

All relatives and friends are invited to attend.

"The English and French people love their beautiful flowers," Mrs. Emily deMontluzin said, speaking before the Pass Christian Garden Club on Feb. 5.

In her slide presentation, Mrs. deMontluzin, a member of the Bay-Waveland Garden Club, took the audience on a vicarious trip through the lush green fields and valleys of England to the wild flowers blooming in France.

Mrs. deMontluzin said, "the main difference between a formal garden in England and one in France is that the English gardens are laid out in straight rows, while the French design their gardens like Persian carpets."

In other club business, Mrs. Rosemond Wallace made several suggestions on dealing with the recent vandalism in Pass Christian's Wild Flower Garden.

Mrs. John J. Drevar mentioned that the club's annual Flower Show would be held again in April.

It was announced that a tree will be planted in The Wild Flower Garden in Memory of Mrs. C.D. Taylor Jr. Hostess for the meeting was Mrs. James Winchester.

Loiacano offers fitness tips to Newcomers

Lorraine Heier presided over the monthly luncheon meeting of the Diamondhead Newcomer's Club February 13 at the Diamondhead Country Club.

Barbara Couture and Clarice Gustin registered guests; Bertha Morris tagged the guests with Valentine-shaped nameplates and Ann Neff and Janet Bell greeted those in attendance.

Reverend Mark Jumper gave the invocation.

Clarice Gustin introduced newcomers Diane Buckner, Johnnie and R.B. Boatright, Anita Lamb and Eileen Freeman.

Guests were: Ida Mae Brager and Mrs. Edna Walker. Wally Little announced dates for Mardi Gras functions.

Lee Peterson gave dates for bridge and Diamondhead Volunteer Fire Department functions and Sidney Watson invited members to join the Diamondhead Community Association and functions of the Diamondhead Men's Golf Association.

J.E. Loiacano of the Loiacano Health Club in Bay St. Louis lectured on physical fitness and demonstrated exercises specifically designed to reduce the various types of fatty tissue. He answered questions and issued guest passes to the group.

Anita Lamb won the door prize donated by Bill and Patti Schoenfeld. Charlie Galvin won a $50 gift certificate from Bob Stanton's Dress Shop; and Anita Montgomery, Pearlina Johnson and Cell Grice won jump ropes donated by J.E. Loiacano.

Submitted by Sidney Watson, club publicist.

Alexander addresses legal secretaries

Honorable Frank W. Alexander, who served as Chancellor of the Eighth Chancery Court District of Mississippi, comprised of Harrison, Hancock, and Stone Counties from 1967 to 1979 and who is currently practicing law in the Gulfport law firm of Estes, Estes, and Alexander, was the guest speaker at the February meeting of the Harrison and Hancock Counties Legal Secretaries' Association held at the Best Western Inn in Gulfport on February 12.

He addressed the group regarding Chancery Court Procedures.

President Ilyne Stewart presided at the meeting. The Code of Ethics was read by Patricia Walker; Maxine Lehoucq conducted roll call and read the minutes of the previous meeting, and Sandra Wedworth gave the treasurer's report. Legal education chairman, Donna Cave, conducted a legal education quiz and Rita Smith, governor, reported on the board meeting held in Vicksburg last month.

—Ways and means chairman, Denise Fawcett, announced plans for an Arts and Crafts Show, and Gini Myers, Bosses Night Chairman, announced plans for the 13th Annual Bosses' Night to be held March 14.

The meeting was attended by approximately 26 legal secretaries.

Pursley donates book to local library

Dr. and Mrs. Paul Pursley recently presented the Hancock County Library System an autographed copy of "Indian Giver" by Peter Toth.

"Many may remember Toth when he was in Ocean Springs carving an Indian head sculpture there. He was also featured recently on television's Real People," a library spokesman noted this week.

"Indian Giver" is the story of Toth's life from the time of his family's escape from communist Hungary to the present," the spokesman said.

Toth has been traveling the United States since 1972 carving his "Whispering Giants" as a gift to each state and a remembrance of the American Indians.

There is also a small Toth sculpture, donated in memory of William (Billy) Pursley several years ago, on display in the City-County Public Library in Bay St. Louis.

There's an Answer!

by Norman Vincent Peale and Ruth Stafford Peale

Feeling trapped?

Q. I lived alone and didn't mind it till I landed in the hospital where I knocked at death's door more than once. I finally got home again only to find home isn't the same. I can't take my walks. I can't go anywhere unless someone comes for me in a car. My eyesight is failing, and without my hobbies my life isn't worth much to me.

I recently realized I need a good man to take care of me. Is it sinful to dream of this man I know? Should I forget about him or any other man? If so, I am afraid that means a real home for me, and that seems like the end of the line. I have visions of being cooped up with others who have nothing to live for either.

A. No, it is not sinful, but is it adequate to want to marry a man just to have him take care of you? Even in such a case as yours, marriage should be a partnership in which each cares for the other.

No circumstance need be "the end of the line" unless you think of it that way. You need to cultivate a positive outlook on life so that the good things will outweigh the difficult ones: friends, a home, the sunshine, etc. Make a list and see how many good things you have. Then practice being thankful for them.

Go on drunken sprees

Q. I have a good husband and he is a good father when he is not drunk. He goes on a spree every week or so, no matter what kind of work there is to be done. He goes to the pub and drinks all day, and many a night he doesn't come home until morning and is drunk.

It gets to me so much that I think I can't take it anymore. I worry a lot, get upset, can't sleep when he is not at home. He won't go to AA. He says he is doing nothing wrong. Please help me know what to do about it.

A. If your mother and your daughter accepted the Lord in mortal life, they were saved and are now with God. They are beyond and above all human worrying. Confidently put them into God's hands and let them go. Allow them to enjoy Heaven. Then go on, live your life, trust God and be happy.

We are sending you a booklet Let Not Your Heart Be Troubled, which has helped others who face problems of grief. It is free to any reader of this column. Write to us at Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

LEADERSHIP AWARD—Miss Virginia McMillan, Granddaughter of Mrs. Enola McMillan, 216 Keller Ave., Bay St. Louis and a senior at Our Lady's Academy, received the "Eagle of the Cross" award from Bishop Joseph L. Howze of Biloxi at a Diocesan Youth Convention at the Buena Vista Hotel, Biloxi, February 13-15. The "Eagle of the Cross" award is a national Catholic award given to young people who excel in leadership, service, dedication and commitment to peer, community and Church. McMillan serves as president of Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Youth Organization, is a member of St. Stanislaus Band, member of the National Honor Society, Athletic Club, a member of the Drama Club, Youth Choir, and Spanish Club. After graduation, she hopes to study medicine.

Pulpit Points
BY DR. L.S. WALKER

By L.S. WALKER, D.D.

Trails as well as triumphs are a part of living. One of the more common complaints of a great many people is that their lives are but a series of trails, hardships and troubles. If you wish to live without trails, you are wishing for a state of being only half a person — living half a life.

"Beloved, think it not strange concerning the fiery trial which is to try you, as though some strange thing happened unto you..." says the Scriptures (1 Pet. 4:12). Only in the storm does the ship realize the need of its anchor. It is the fury of the storm that tests the strength of the anchor.

Without trails you cannot estimate your own strength or capacity as one who has trusted Christ as "an anchor of the soul." Hardships is the native soil of manhood self-reliance. Every boy knows that a kite rises against the wind, not with the wind.

It is the heritage of humanity to have trails and tribulations. Opposition is often a help, rather than a hindrance.

It is so often in the storms of life that God speaks to His people. When the fury of discontent troubles our heart most is a good time to listen intently for the still small voice of God.

"But the ship was now in the midst of the sea, tossed with waves; for the wind was contrary... Jesus spake unto them, saying, Be of good cheer; it is I; be not afraid" (Matt. 14:24-27).

On the wall in my study hangs a little plaque, given me some years ago by a dear friend, which says:

"It's easy to be pleasant when life goes by with a song, but the man worthwhile is the man who can smile when everything else goes wrong."

Dinner theatre's new offering opens Friday

"You Know I Can't Hear You When The Water's Running" by Robert Anderson, previews February this week at Minacappell's Dinner Theatre in Slidell.

The production, starring Lois Crandell, George Sanchez, Robin Robinson, Elizabeth Mialaret, and Elliott Keener, opens Friday for a five week run.

Elliott Keener also directs the comedy written in three acts, each act a different vignette about a different aspect of human nature.

In the first vignette, entitled The Shock Of Recognition, producer and playwright range over the appropriateness of nudity on stage while an actor proves he will do anything to get a job. In Footsteps Of The Dove, a middle aged couple shops for their first twin beds against the husband's will but he gets a new lease on life when he meets a young girl in the bedding department of the furniture store.

The last act, I'm Herbert, deals with a senile, old couple attempting to relive their past lives and marriages. They do well to remember who they are, much less the names of their past spouses.

The play runs Thursday through Saturday evenings with a Sunday matinee until March 22.

For reservations, call 504-524-7455 in New Orleans or 504-643-9671 in Slidell.

The Spinal Column

BY WILLIAM L. POWELL, D.C.

Questions From Our Patients

PATIENT: When should a patient see a chiropractor?

DR. POWELL: Everyone should have a spinal examination at least twice a year. Any spinal distortion or nerve irritation could then be quickly eliminated. Preventive health care enables one to live a more healthy and productive life.

PATIENT: Why is the spinal column so important?

DR. POWELL: Your brain controls all the functions in your body. It sends vital nerve impulses to all areas of the body through your spinal cord. It receives important messages from the body as well. When a spinal bone becomes misaligned, it may irritate the sensitive spinal nerves, thus interfering with these important spinal messages.

PATIENT: If there is nerve irritation in the spinal column what type problems may exist?

DR. POWELL: This depends on the organ or area of the body controlled by the irritated nerve. For example, if an irritation would occur to the spinal nerves in the neck, a number of equally painful conditions could result - such as migraine headaches.

PATIENT: What could a chiropractor do for neck pain, common headaches or even migraines?

DR. POWELL: Following a complete physical examination and X-ray study, he would locate the areas of nerve involvement and remove the irritation by correcting the vertebral misalignment.

PATIENT: Is the adjustment painful?

DR. POWELL: Using proper chiropractic technique, there should be NO pain when making the correction.
